

Caring for EARTHENWARE

The pottery that we sell in our studio is low-fire earthenware. Your hand-painted pottery is a one-of-a-kind design. As with all keepsakes, handle these pieces with care to ensure they last for years to come.

TIPS

- Avoid rapid temperature changes, such as the microwave, oven, or dishwasher to ensure a longer life for your artwork. Earthenware is not recommended for microwave, oven, or dishwasher use.
- Allow a warm pottery piece to cool before putting it into cold water.
- Be gentle when handling your ceramics and avoid letting pieces bump against other pottery or objects to prevent chipping.
- Handwashing your hand-painted creations is recommended.
- Treat your pottery pieces with the same love and care as fine art!

Caring for EARTHENWARE

The pottery that we sell in our studio is low-fire earthenware. Your hand-painted pottery is a one-of-a-kind design. As with all keepsakes, handle these pieces with care to ensure they last for years to come.

TIPS

- Avoid rapid temperature changes, such as the microwave, oven, or dishwasher to ensure a longer life for your artwork. Earthenware is not recommended for microwave, oven, or dishwasher use.
- Allow a warm pottery piece to cool before putting it into cold water.
- Be gentle when handling your ceramics and avoid letting pieces bump against other pottery or objects to prevent chipping.
- Handwashing your hand-painted creations is recommended.
- Treat your pottery pieces with the same love and care as fine art!

Caring for EARTHENWARE

The pottery that we sell in our studio is low-fire earthenware. Your hand-painted pottery is a one-of-a-kind design. As with all keepsakes, handle these pieces with care to ensure they last for years to come.

TIPS

- Avoid rapid temperature changes, such as the microwave, oven, or dishwasher to ensure a longer life for your artwork. Earthenware is not recommended for microwave, oven, or dishwasher use.
- Allow a warm pottery piece to cool before putting it into cold water.
- Be gentle when handling your ceramics and avoid letting pieces bump against other pottery or objects to prevent chipping.
- Handwashing your hand-painted creations is recommended.
- Treat your pottery pieces with the same love and care as fine art!

Caring for EARTHENWARE

The pottery that we sell in our studio is low-fire earthenware. Your hand-painted pottery is a one-of-a-kind design. As with all keepsakes, handle these pieces with care to ensure they last for years to come.

TIPS

- Avoid rapid temperature changes, such as the microwave, oven, or dishwasher to ensure a longer life for your artwork. Earthenware is not recommended for microwave, oven, or dishwasher use.
- Allow a warm pottery piece to cool before putting it into cold water.
- Be gentle when handling your ceramics and avoid letting pieces bump against other pottery or objects to prevent chipping.
- Handwashing your hand-painted creations is recommended.
- Treat your pottery pieces with the same love and care as fine art!